Pick-Hits

Off The Record

Simple Plan

No Pads, No Helmets...

Turning teenage angst into infectious pop-punk, Montreal's Simple Plan have hit the right chord with fans, landing them a spot on the Vans Warped Tour and several Hollywood soundtracks. The hook-filled single I'm Just a Kid appeared on three feature films (The New Guy, Bring It On and Road Trip) and their current release, I'd Do Anything is currently assaulting the top 20. Influences ranging from Green Day, Blink-182, the Clash and the Beach Boys may explain the bands knack for blending melodies with aggression. Taking their band name from the film of the same title, Simple Plan have fused Sum 41's riffs with tongue in cheek lyrics and a great live presence to become one of the bands to watch. If you are looking for an hard-hitting, witty, fun punk-pop album, this is it.

At The Movies

Trapped

The perfect crime just might be the crime that is never reported. Some criminals seize control of their environment so convincingly, and cover their tracks so effectively that they leave nothing but terrified victims so shocked that they retreat into silence. These are the unfortunate victims of Joe and Cheryl Hickey (Kevin Bacon and Courtney Love), who along with Joe's cousin Marvin have orchestrated and refined a foolproof plan to extort money from wealthy families. They've preyed upon helpless families with confidence, skill, and success. But this time, they picked the wrong family, a family that chooses to fight back and take control of a terrifying ordeal that is spiraling towards an unthinkable outcome. This is definitely a movie to check out, a thrilling action flick you should look forward to seeing.

On Video

Frailty

Matthew McConaughey plays Fenton Meeks, who approaches an FBI investigator claiming to know that the identity of a serial killer dubbed the God's Hand Killer is his younger brother Adam. Fenton continues by recounting in a series of flashbacks how he and his brother had a normal upbringing, raised by their widowed father, until the night their Dad woke his kids in the middle of the night to inform them that he has had a vision that the Meeks family must act as God's hands to purge the world of the demons among them. As their father's visions become more frequent and disturbing, the paths of the brothers begin to diverge as the younger, more impressionable Adam aligns himself with their father and Fenton's questioning of God's will, as interpreted by his father, throws the family off on a wrenching course that will test their faith, challenge a son's courage and end a child's innocence.
