MEET THE STRANGERS

North American customers have proved they are eager to discover what comics from Europe have to offer, and fan-favorites Jean-Marc & Randy Lofficier have earned a vast international following for their many comics, stories, and articles. In March, they'll add to their reputations by bringing a group of intergalactic heroes across time, space, and the Atlantic Ocean in Strangers, a new tale coming to Canadian audiences from France via Image Comics. Strangers #1 will introduce the alien-possessed NASA physicist Homiecon, the fugitive slave Starlock, the mysterious Futura, the telepathic spy Jaleb, and the deadly killing machine Jaydee as they are brought together by the future being known as Tanka, who is charged with guarding the present from destruction. The book is scheduled to ship on March 26.

AT THE MOVIES

SHANGHAI KNIGHTS

After taming the Wild West in the comedy Shanghai Noon, Chon Wang (Jackie Chan) and Roy O'Bannon (Owen Wilson) are back in the saddle. When a Chinese rebel murders Chon's estranged father and escapes to England, Chon and Roy make their way to London with revenge on their minds. Chon's sister, Liu, has the same idea, and uncovers a worldwide conspiracy to murder the royal family. With the help of a kindly Scotland Yard Inspector and a 10-year-old street urchin, the acrobatic Chon gives Britain a kick in the pants as he attempts to avenge his father's death and keep the romance-minded Roy away from his sister. This is The Apple Dumpling Gang if Tim Conway knew kung fu, and like those cheesy Disney classics, Shanghai Knights is just cornball fun.

THE MASTER OF DISGUISE

Widely panned during its release, Dana Carvey plays Pistachio Disguisey, a sweet-natured Italian waiter who works at his father Fabbrizio's (James Brolin) restaurant. Pistachio can't figure out why he compulsively mimics his customers and wants to change his appearance. What he doesn't know yet is the Disguisey family secret: a long legacy of masters of disguise who can become almost anyone or anything by harnessing the great power known through the ages as Energico. This talent gets Fabbrizio and Pistachio's mother kidnapped by his former archenemy Devlin Bowman, a criminal mastermind. Now Pistachio must learn to make the most of his inherited gift, track down Devlin and save his parents. Silly and stupid, but fun for the younger kids.

THE BUZZ...

Metallica has rumored plans for a stadium tour with Limp Bizkit and Linkin Park for this summer. Limp Bizkit and Linkin Park will be touring in support of new spring releases. Linkin Park's sophomore album, Meteora, is scheduled for release on March 25th and Limp Bizkit's forthcoming album, Less Is More, is expected to hit stores on April 1st. A release date for Metallica's new studio effort has yet to be set.

According to the band's Web site, the Crüe have inked a deal with Universal Music to reissue their entire catalog, with bonus tracks, on April 1. The band will also release another greatest-hits album (March 4) and a box set later in the year.

He breathed new life into noir thrillers with "Memento," and now Warner Bros. is asking Christopher Nolan to do the same for their stalled Batman franchise. The acclaimed writer/director will helm the caped crusader's next movie, but there's no word yet who'll play the superhero or which of the many scripts will be used.

JANE MILLIONAIRE?

Diehard Joe Millionaire fans think they've figured out the twist that's sure to come at the end of this reality series, and it puts brunette Zora Andrich in the control seat. Everyone knows Fox's publicized premise for the show -- the male star Evan Marriott is looking for love by telling a group of 20 he's worth $50 million even though he's really dirt poor. But how about this for an ending. What if Andrich is really a millionaire instead? And what if the whole show has been scripted by her and she's actually testing Marriott to determine his true feelings?
